

Halloween and Spooky Sounds Webinar

The song Pumpkin Fat is fun for K-1.

It uses just so-mi so can be used to teach K students high-low and for Grade 1 can be used to teach that the higher sound is called so and the lower sound mi. A series of interactives help to teach/reinforce this.

For Kindergarten or Gr. 1 classes, the Pumpkin Fat singing game is a lot of fun!

Now, there's a trace and color worksheet to help students begin to write as well as read music notation.

Model how to create the word rhythm with the interactive.

This is found in UNITS-Holidays-Halloween -
Halloween Rondos

A new set of words has been written for the little song.
Candy apples, oh, so sweet.
Give me something good to eat.

The interactive will be updated soon with the new option.

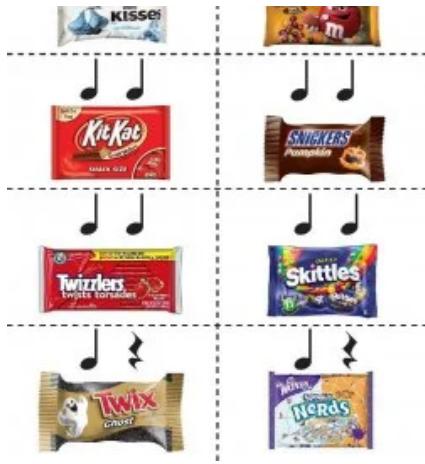

There are 3 ways to teach this lesson.

#1 - do this as a class using the interactive above
It's always a good idea to model first!

#2 - give the students a copy of the worksheet and have them write their treat choices in the box.

#3 - give the students a set of treat cards and have them create their own pattern with manipulatives them create their own pattern with manipulatives.

I like to model with the interactive, then give students manipulatives (vs worksheet).

I put the creating cards into a ziploc bag or a white CD envelope and re-use the manipulatives each year.

Sing the simple song as the A section, then the student treat rhythms become the B, C, D sections.

You can have kids work together in small groups if you wish.

Create a story with sound effects is a very popular Halloween/Spooky activity.

You'll find all the sound effects in UNITS-Holidays-Halloween -Halloween Sound Effects.

There is a story that you can use as an exemplar. Then, invite students, or groups of students to write their own stories.
